PROFESSIONAL SEQUENCE IN
Cultural Landscape Preservation and Management

Gain education and training in the preservation and management of cultural landscapes, or places that include historic and natural resources. The Professional Sequence in Cultural Landscape Preservation and Management helps you develop awareness and build skills through a sequence of lecture- and studio-based courses. All courses in the program are either required courses or approved electives for the Certificate Program in Landscape Architecture, which enables you to progress concurrently through both programs.

3 Required Courses, 6 Semester Units, 93 Hours of Instruction

The Cultural Landscape: Preservation and Sustainable Practice  LD ARCH X455
(1 semester unit)
Gain an understanding of the fundamental tools of landscape management and sustainable practice. Learn basic methodologies for landscape preservation through the lens of natural and cultural resource management.

Cultural Landscape Documentation and Studio  LD ARCH X452 (2 semester units)
Learn the fundamental tools and processes of the preservation of historic landscapes. Make informed decisions about cultural landscapes, and develop treatment strategies such as preservation, rehabilitation, restoration and reconstruction.

History of Landscape Architecture  LD ARCH X473 (3 semester units)
Get a broad historical survey of the planning and design of gardens, parks, cities and open spaces across cultures, geographic regions and time periods. Examine how these built environments are imagined and created in relationship to other disciplines such as art, architecture, planning, ecology and cultural geography.

Course availability is subject to change.
