

Open the door for your students to study at a world-renowned university.

UC Berkeley Extension's Berkeley Global Access program offers university students proficient in English a study-abroad opportunity that combines academic instruction with a full immersion experience in the United States. As the continuing-education branch of the University of California, Berkeley, Extension provides unique access to the greater Berkeley network—including campus, courses and instructors—without the complicated admissions process.

Berkeley Global Access students can study in the program for one semester or a full academic year. Both options enable students to choose a variety of courses to complete undergraduate or graduate requirements, refine their English skills and gain a rich cultural experience. Courses take place both on the main UC Berkeley campus and at UC Berkeley Extension, where students learn from expert instructors who are leaders in their fields. All courses are approved by UC Berkeley and offer the academic rigor associated with the Berkeley name.

With the Berkeley Global Access program, UC Berkeley Extension is proud to connect universities from around the world to Berkeley and the San Francisco Bay Area. The natural beauty and climate of northern California combined with unmatched academic excellence offer an exceptional study-abroad experience. We look forward to welcoming your students!

Berkeley Global Access

In this unique program, students gain experience and academic credit in both UC Berkeley and Extension courses. UC Berkeley courses are offered on campus through the concurrent enrollment program. Students may choose three to four courses within the UC Berkeley course catalog (excluding courses from the School of Law and the Haas School of Business), as long as they meet any published prerequisites. Students must apply to take concurrent enrollment courses, and approval by the campus department and the instructor is required.

Although most students choose an English-as-a-second-language (ESL) offering as their UC Berkeley Extension course, they may opt for any course in the Extension catalog if they meet all published prerequisites. Transcripts of prior study may be required.

Enrollment in all courses is subject to availability. If enrollment in any course is denied, students must choose an alternate—either a campus course or an Extension course—to maintain a full-time study schedule. UC Berkeley Extension courses are generally held in the evenings and on weekends; campus courses are held on weekdays.

Courses must carry academic credit in semester units. Enrollment in continuing education unit (CEU) courses is not permitted.

Admission and Acceptance Details

UC Berkeley Extension selects students from top universities worldwide to participate in the Berkeley Global Access program. Extension chooses students based on academic performance and English-language skills. Students without TOEFL or IELTS test scores must undergo an admissions interview with UC Berkeley Extension.

Berkeley Global Access students enroll in UC Berkeley campus courses on a space-available basis. If desired campus courses are full, students must choose alternate courses either on campus or at Extension to maintain full-time student status. Courses in the UC Berkeley School of Law and the Haas School of Business are not available for Berkeley Global Access enrollment. Students receive detailed information about the course enrollment process, including when to enroll and how to secure campus department approval, once they arrive in Berkeley.

All students must complete a full Berkeley Global Access application, which includes:

- Enrollment application
- Financial statement and certification
- English-language proficiency scores
- Official university transcripts
- Statement of background and purpose (written by student)
- Copy of passport identification page and expiration date

The Berkeley Experience

Studying in the Berkeley Global Access program places students in the heart of downtown Berkeley, a dynamic community that is part of the larger San Francisco Bay Area. Here, students take courses with bright, engaged university students as well as enthusiastic, accepting professionals who are committed to achieving their dreams. Classes take place both on the UC Berkeley campus and at the UC Berkeley Extension building, just a few blocks away.

When not in class, students are free to explore downtown Berkeley, an arts and entertainment district offering cinemas, live theater and music. Students can sample local organic foods at a weekend farmers' market, have coffee at a sidewalk café or take a hike in the wooded Berkeley Hills. They can visit one-of-a-kind street vendors on Telegraph Avenue or enjoy an outdoor concert at the Greek Theatre. On any day of the week, from the hills to the bay, students can find enjoyable things to do in the diverse and colorful city of Berkeley.

Quality You Can Trust

Since 1891, UC Berkeley Extension has been a respected provider of adult and professional education. As the continuing-education branch of the University of California, Berkeley, Extension offers focused, goal-oriented training in the classroom and online through a rigorous program of UC Berkeley–approved study. UC Berkeley Extension—like all other UC Berkeley schools, colleges and departments—is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC) through the University.
